Q. Tell what convergation you had with George on the night of May 4.

A. That alight he came home early. He said he had come to have me sign papers for a divorce. I said: "The girl you are going with is Tessie Hayen."

He said: "Yes, she has said she loved me and will not give me up." Then I said I would go and see her grandmother. AND WAS STUNNED. Q. What did you do with the letters from Tessie Hayes that you took from under his pillows?" A. I sat on a chair and read one or two. Then I dropped them to the floor. I was disappointed and stunned to find that they were letters. I did not read all the letters then, I put them in my pocket. I went to see Mr. Healey, but he had gone to work and I saw Mrs. Healey.

Q. Did you go to see Mrs. Healey of the shooting.) A. Yes, I gave her some of the letters. I tore up some of them. I gave Mrs. Healey some and told her to give them to ber husband. I went down

Q. Did you get a book at Mrs. Fords?

A. I went upstairs to my own room,
Then I went to Mrs. Ford's room where I got the gun. I thought how easy it would be to end my troubles.

"On the 5th of May," Mrs. O'Shaughnessy continued, "I took the revolver home with ms. George came home about 2 o'clock. He asked me: Where are those letters?" I told him I had burned them. I asked him if he had planned to take me to England and desert me, and he said he had. He said Tessie Hayes had helped make the plan. I wanted him to give her up, to come back to me and go to church, but it was all no use. I was so tired and weary and ill I was almost giving up.

HEARS SENTENCE PASSED UPON
A CONVICTED MAN.

A CONVICTED MAN.

At the conclusion of her direct examination by Lawyer Rosalsky Mrs. O'Shaughnessy sat on the stand and listened as sentence was pronounced on Antonio Cardello, convicted of assault. 'There is more of the dog about your nature than that of a human being,' said Judge Foster to the man at the bar. The sentence was for not less than four years and six months or not more than nine and a half years in Sing Sing. The girl trembled and there was an added softness in her voice as Prosecutor Edwards began his cross examination.

Prosecutor Edwards asked her about retting Mr. Ford's revolver.

"I got it out of a closet in Mr. Ford's dressing room, she replied, "and I wrapped it up in a paper. Then I went down stairs and saw Mrs. Fard. Then I went back to Mrs. Geyer's. I put the revolver in a bureau drawer in George's room.

George's room.

Q. After George came in what did he do whie you were talking to him?

A. He walked about and washed his hands. I asked George a lot of things and pleaded with him in many ways. I don't remember whether I asked him to pray or ont."

Q In your last conversation did you sek him about Tessie Hayes? A. "I seked him if he had any improper relations with Tessie Hayes. He answered 'No.' I doubted it."

didn't know he was a married man?
A. "Yes, I took her arm and asked her if she didn't know George was my husband and she said 'No.' I asked her if she wanted George and she said 'No.'"
Prosecutor Edwards questioned the defendant in a gentle tone of voice that choouraged the girl to answer freely.
"I asked George if everything was over between us and whether he would give up his religion." she said. "I pleaded with him to do the right thing. I was striving to get him back. I wanted him to go to church for I knew if he did he would come back to me. He asked me what I was going to do for a living. I told him it would be hard to get work. He laughed at me."

Q. Then what did you go? A. I went SIXTY DROWN IN WRECK OF AUSTRIAN STEAMSHIP.

Q. Where did George fall? A. He fell on the bed.

Q. What did you do? A. I kiased him. G. Had you made up your mind to kill George when you got Mr. Ford's revolver? A. Oh, I can't say I made up my mind to anything. I just know I wanted it and I felt happler when I had it. I didn't think of killing George then. I had weighed the question of suicide in my mind so often I cannot say whether I was going to use the revolver on myself or him. All the night I worried. I thought of killing him in the morning. I prayed and then I determined to shoot him.

Q. Then did you have one more talk to see if I could persuade him to do right.

foot" is a frequent cause of spinal trouble, as a broken arch throws the body in strained positions.

Orthopedists agree that proper mechanical support is the only effective remedy for falling arch and "flat foot." Leading surgeons endorse the COWARD ARCH SUPPORT SHOE as the one which is anatomically correct and helpful.

This shoe, made on the Coward Orthopedic Last, allows the foot to meet the ground in a natural manner. The extension heel and arch support, steady the ankle, raise the sagging muscles, and encourage correct walk and carriage.

Wearing this Coward Shoe, holds the arch structure in its normal position and prevents and corrects "flat-foot."
